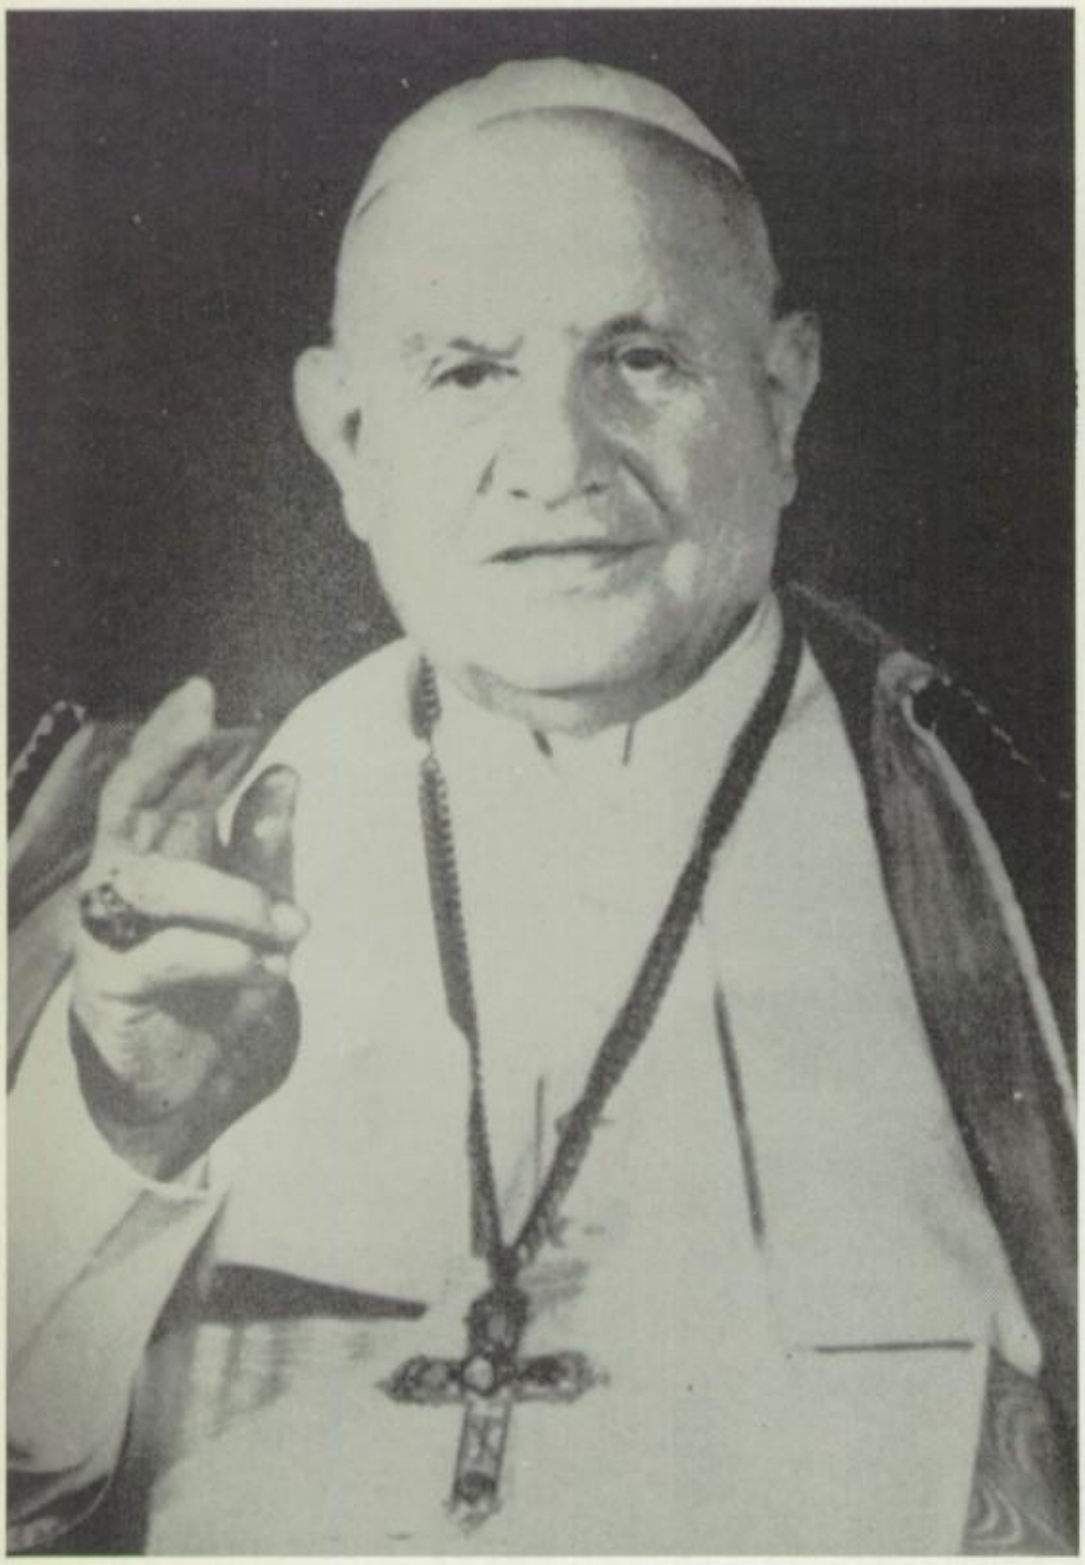
Presents

THE MARYAN

SAINT MARY OF THE MOUNT HIGH SCHOOL

Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania



Dedication

In a sermon delivered at his coronation as the Sovereign Pontiff, His Holiness Pope John XXIII challenged the Church—himself, so to speak, and also all the faithful—to imitation of the zeal of the Good Shepherd—"Ready for every sacred undertaking, no matter how daring, straightforward, constant, even to the supreme sacrifice."

Conscious of our responsibility to do our share to bring all peoples into the fold of Christ, we pledge our allegiance and fealty to our Apostolic Leader, Pope John XXIII, and to him we lovingly and gratefully dedicate our yearbook.

In the words of Holy Mother, The Church, we pray:

The Lord preserve him and give him long life, and make him blessed upon the earth and deliver him nòt up to the will of his enemies.

Foreword ~ In Christ's Apostolate

In an age when materialism is the basis of society and atheistic philosophies abound, the Church calls upon its members to lead the world to a regeneration of a sound Christian conscience. It is the duty and obligation of every Catholic to respond to this call. To pool our resources in the Apostolate of Christ would have unlimited potential to guide men to a Christian way of life. Because the Apostolate of Christ embraces all the principles of our Catholic education, we have chosen it as the theme of our yearbook.

We have been fortunate, for the instruction and the influence of our sisters and our priests has built a sound foundation for membership in an active Catholic laity.

To become leaders in Christ's Apostolate requires a three step program—spiritual preparation, and application. All three have been included in our courses here on Mary's Mount.

Daily Masses, the easy access to the Sacraments, our annual retreat, the constant reminders of God's Holy Presence, and the example of our teachers unite to help us grow spiritually unto Christ.

Nothing humanly possible is neglected in our intellectual training. The sciences, the languages, and the arts are taught by teachers who have specialized in these fields, but more importantly, by teachers whose lives are dedicated to God through teaching.

Opportunities for the application of the principles of Christ are legion. Not only must we make an effort to restore all things to Christ in our school life and our social contacts and our mission activities now, but the lessons learned must be carried over into our adult life. Unless we make use of every opportunity to restore the world to Christ, we will have let Christ down.

So, in the years ahead, when we are leafing through our yearbook, may we be spurred on to greater zeal, or if perchance, we have become negligent in our obligations to Christ, may the memories reawakened be the means of reestablishing us in Christ's Apostolate.

But They That Are as the Brightness

REVEREND HUGH J. LANG
Supervising Principal

To our faculty, the Sisters, Servants of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, we should be eternally grateful. Through them, we have learned that personal sanctity is a vital factor in our development. Their prayers and sacrifices, their guidance and example have brought us to a more vivid realization of our purpose in life. They have implanted in our hearts noble aims and high ideals. May God grant that these noble aims and high ideals be always within our line of vision.

MOTHER M. ALMA
Principal

To Mother Alma not only we, the class of '59, but the whole of Saint Mary of the Mount owe unbounded gratitude. Mother is completing her sixth year as our principal, but her years of devoted and loving service to the Mount total almost six times six years. She refers, with justifiable pride, to the many fine graduates of the past as one of my boys or one of my girls. Most astounding is the fact that she can call all her boys and girls by their baptismal names. This phenomenal feat can be the result only of frequently calling to mind the remembrance of these boys and girls—a remembrance that takes place where remembrances are best—in the presence of the Blessed Sacrament.

We are confident that the best gift of gratitude that we can give to Mother Alma is the promise that we, too, shall remember her always—where remembrances are best.

Mother Alma confers with Sister M. Edwin, local Supervisor of the Sisters of the Immaculate Heart of Mary.

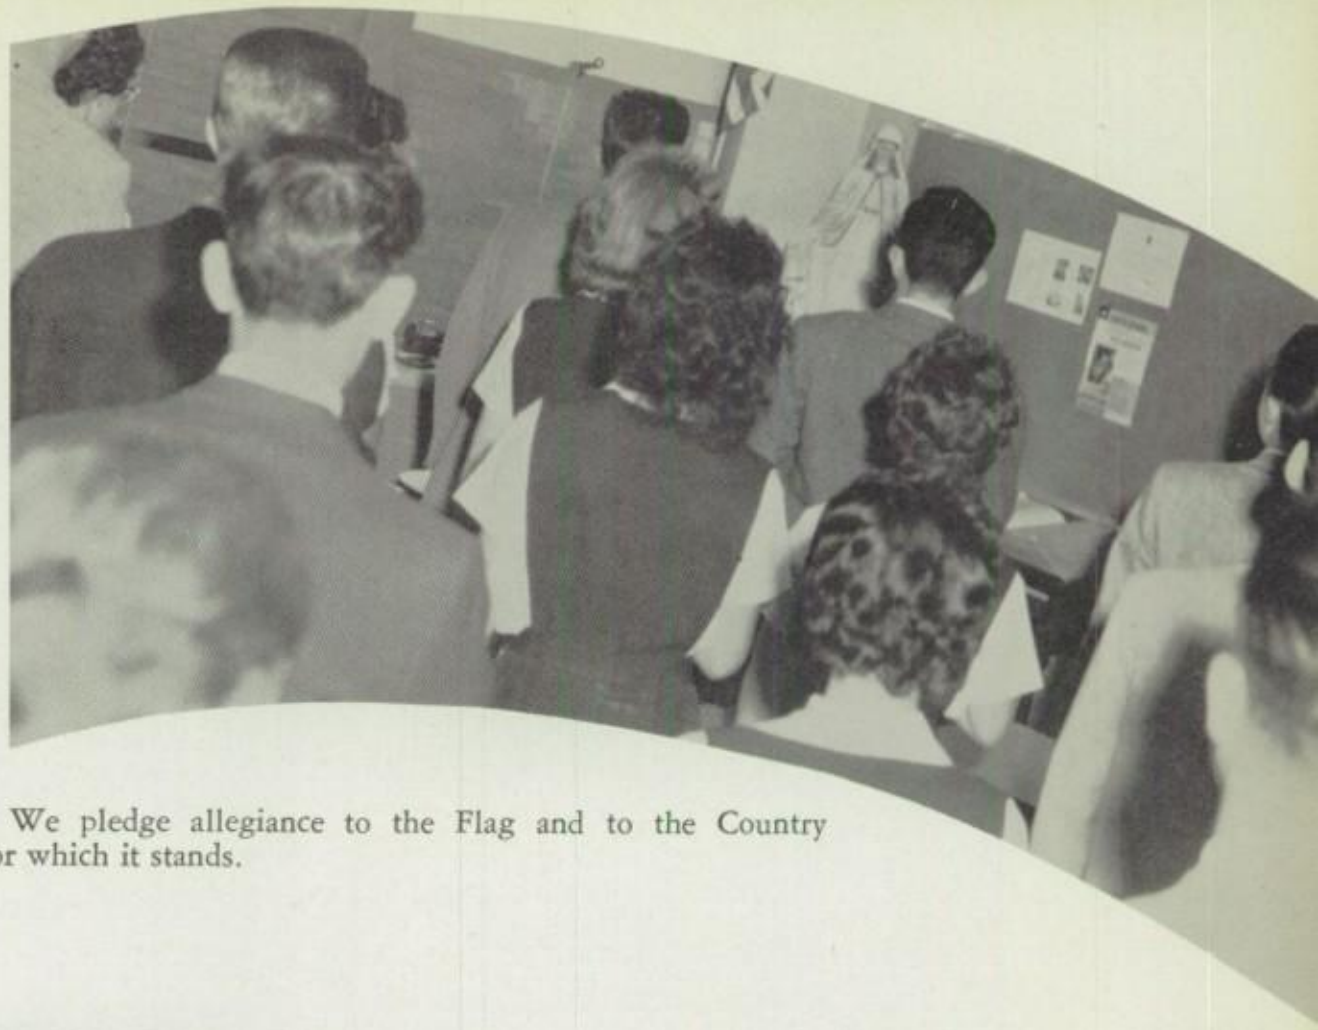
We pledge allegiance to the Cross of Christ and to the Faith for which it stands.

Senior Academics will get their religion questions answered—even if it means blockading the door.

Father Lang, Senior Religion teacher, explains one of the obligations of the priesthood to the Senior Commercials.

to Understand Principles Truth



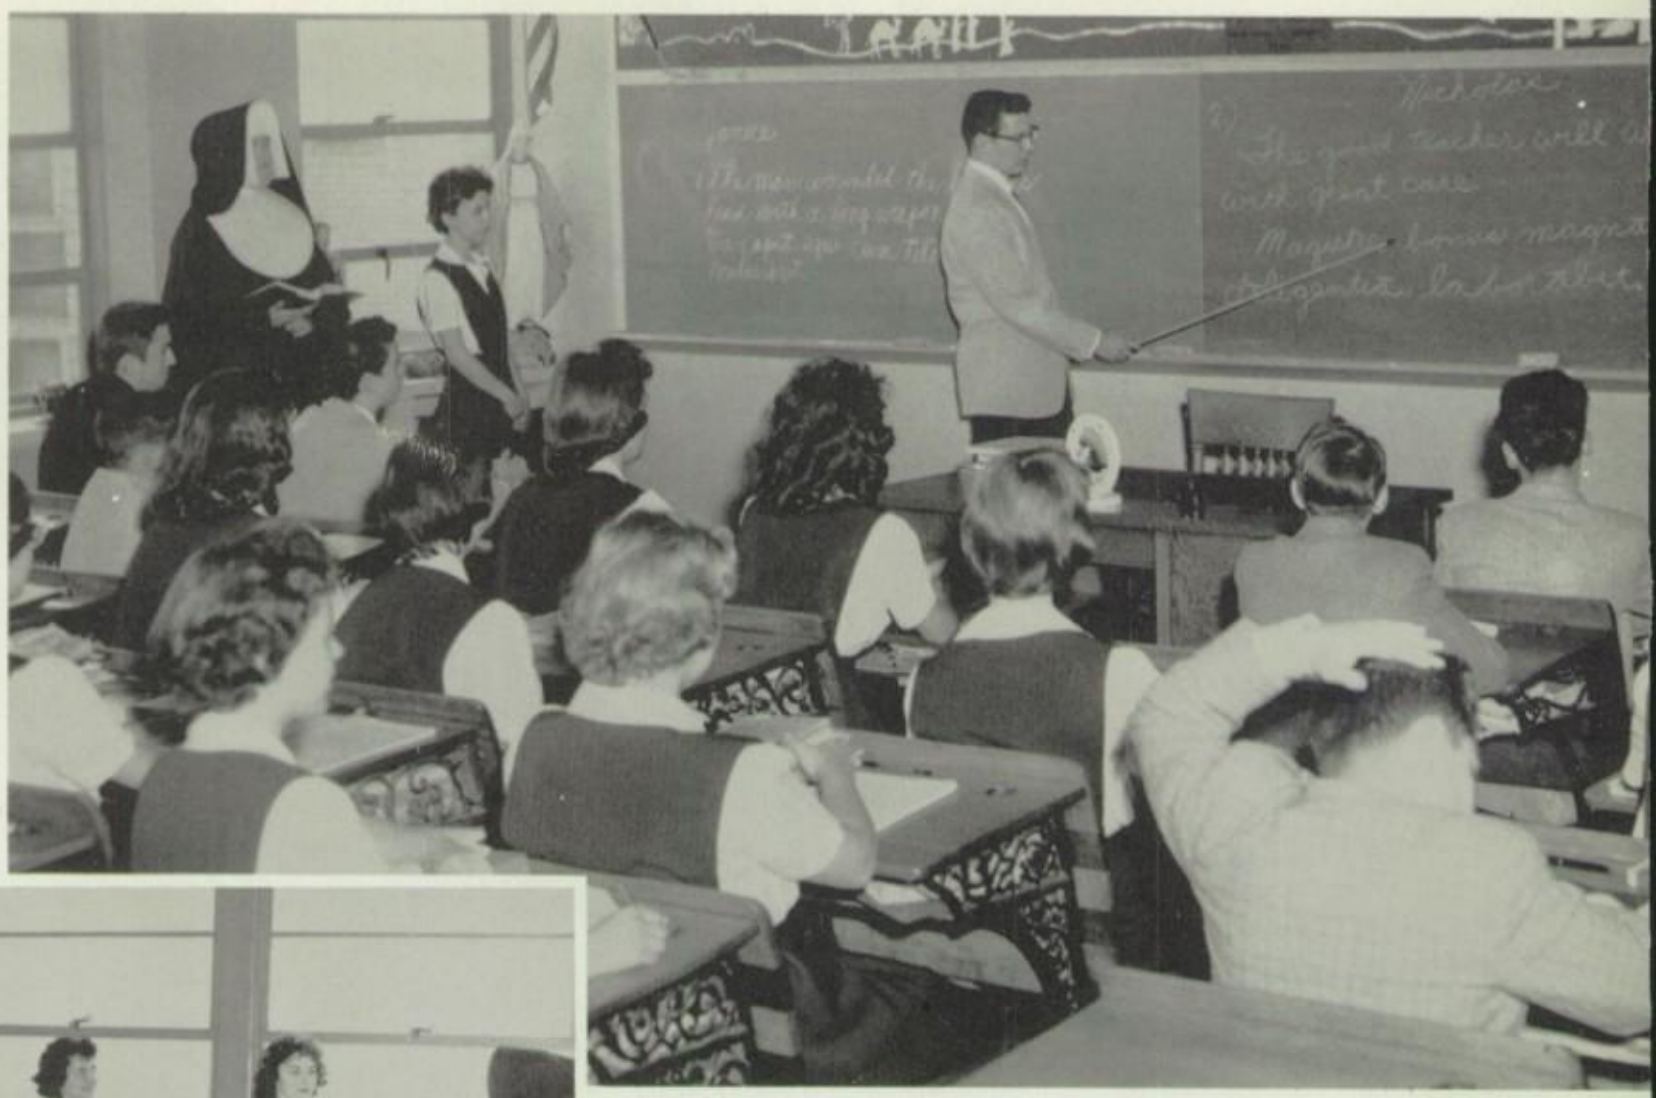
We pledge allegiance to the Flag and to the Country for which it stands.

After a study of the Messianic prophecy concerning the birth of Christ, Richard Beam and Joyce Milan trace the journey of our Blessed Mother and St. Joseph from Nazareth to Bethlehem.

The Church Unity Octave prompts this discussion on one of the phases of Junior Religion—the Greek Schism.

Ellen May Dowd consults the New Testament for a reference on the life of Christ as Sister Brigid and the Sophomore 102 Religion class verify the Scriptural passage.

To Arouse Our Intellectual



Sister Brigid introduces the freshmen to the joys of the study of Latin.

Sister Lucille checks the spelling assignment in the Junior Commercial English Class. Elizabeth Luttig has evidently just misspelled.

The Junior Academics endeavor to perfect their French pronounciation with the aid of a recording. "Ecoutez; puis prononcez soigneusement, s'il vous plait," says Sister Maria Edmund.

Curiosity

Debate is one of the features of English IV. Here, Charles McLaughlin tries to convince Naomi Weissert that the Russian system of education would not be feasible in the United States. He seems to be doing a good job, too.

Sophomore 102 class must have prepared well for their Latin test. They seem wholly unperturbed. Sister Faith looks happy, too.

"M. Tulli, quid agis?" reads Albert Parker in true Ciceronian style.

What are you doing, Mary Jean and Richard?

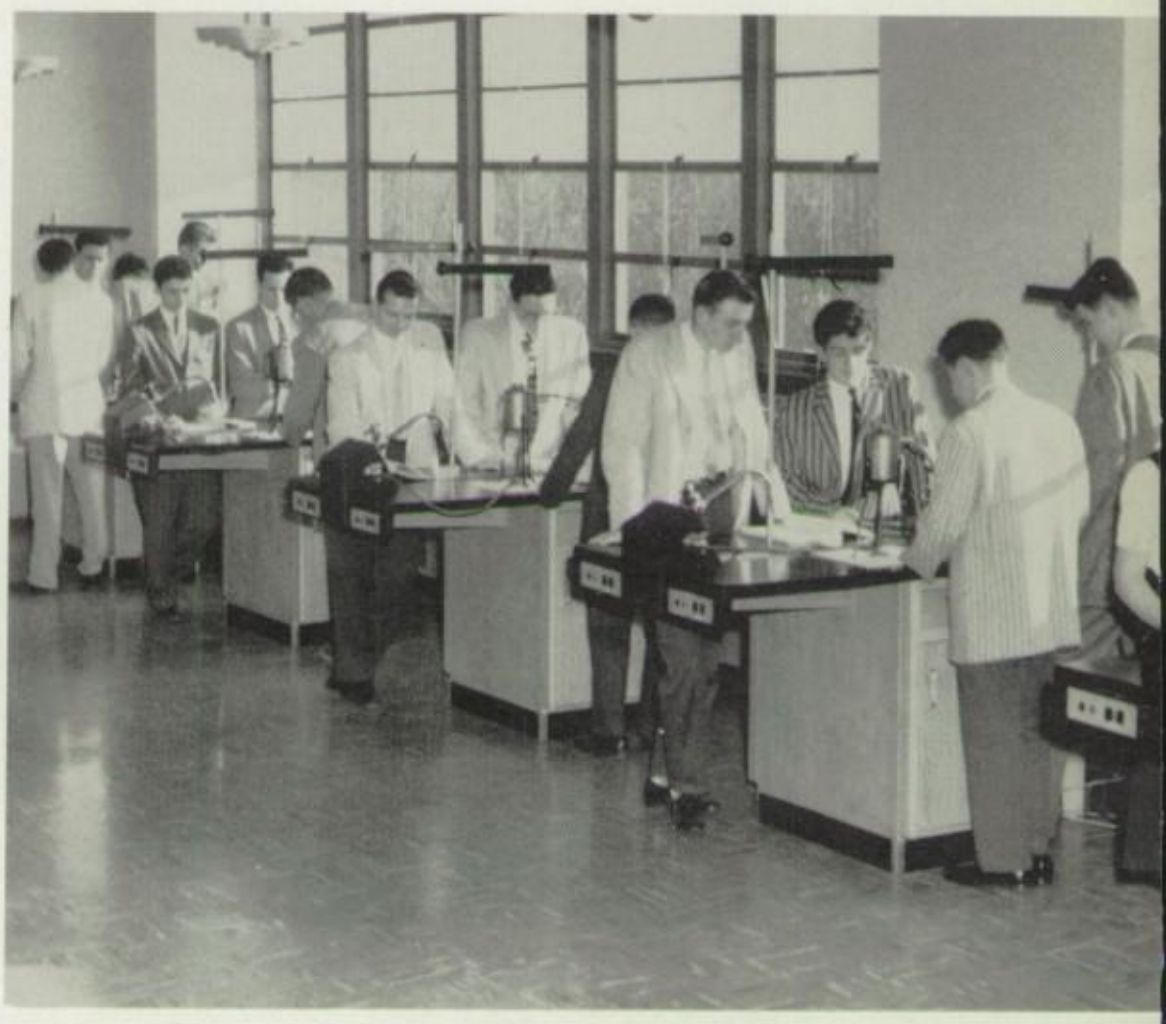
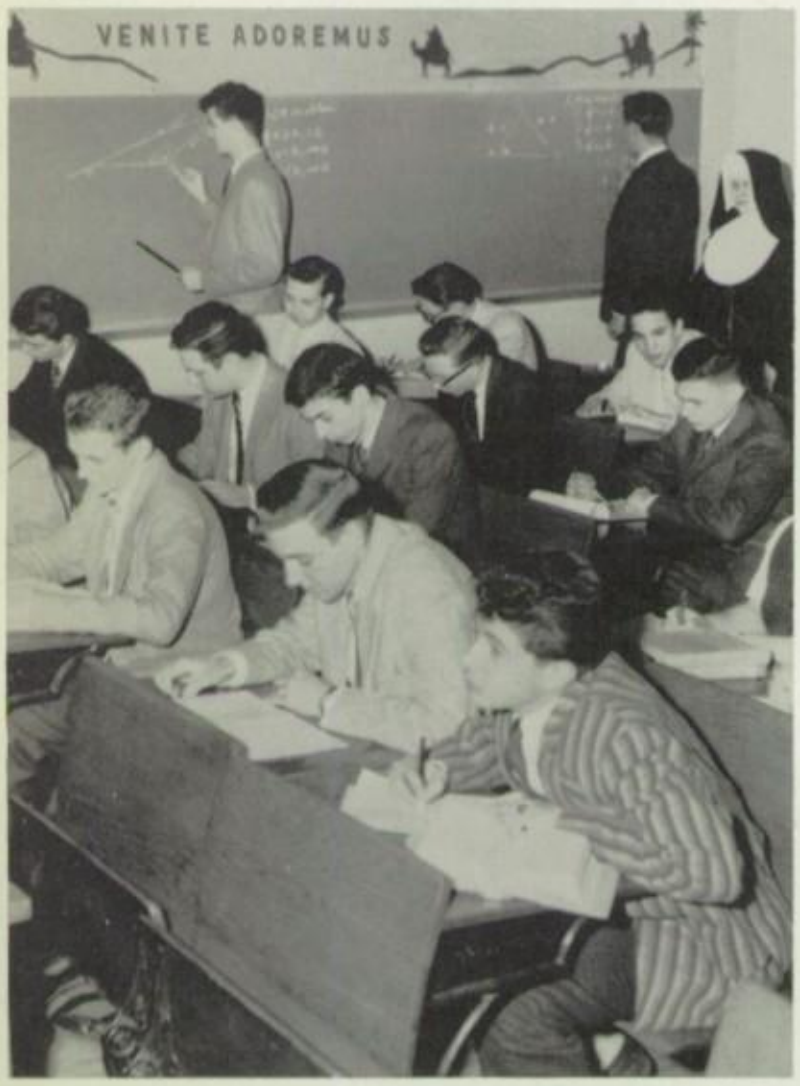
"This is the cornea—I think," says William Doyle, as he explains the organs of the human eye to Patricia Lawler and Charlene Greenwald.

How much heat is given off when a gram of steam condenses? There's the problem, physicists. Now, solve it—you, too, Seline and Maureen.





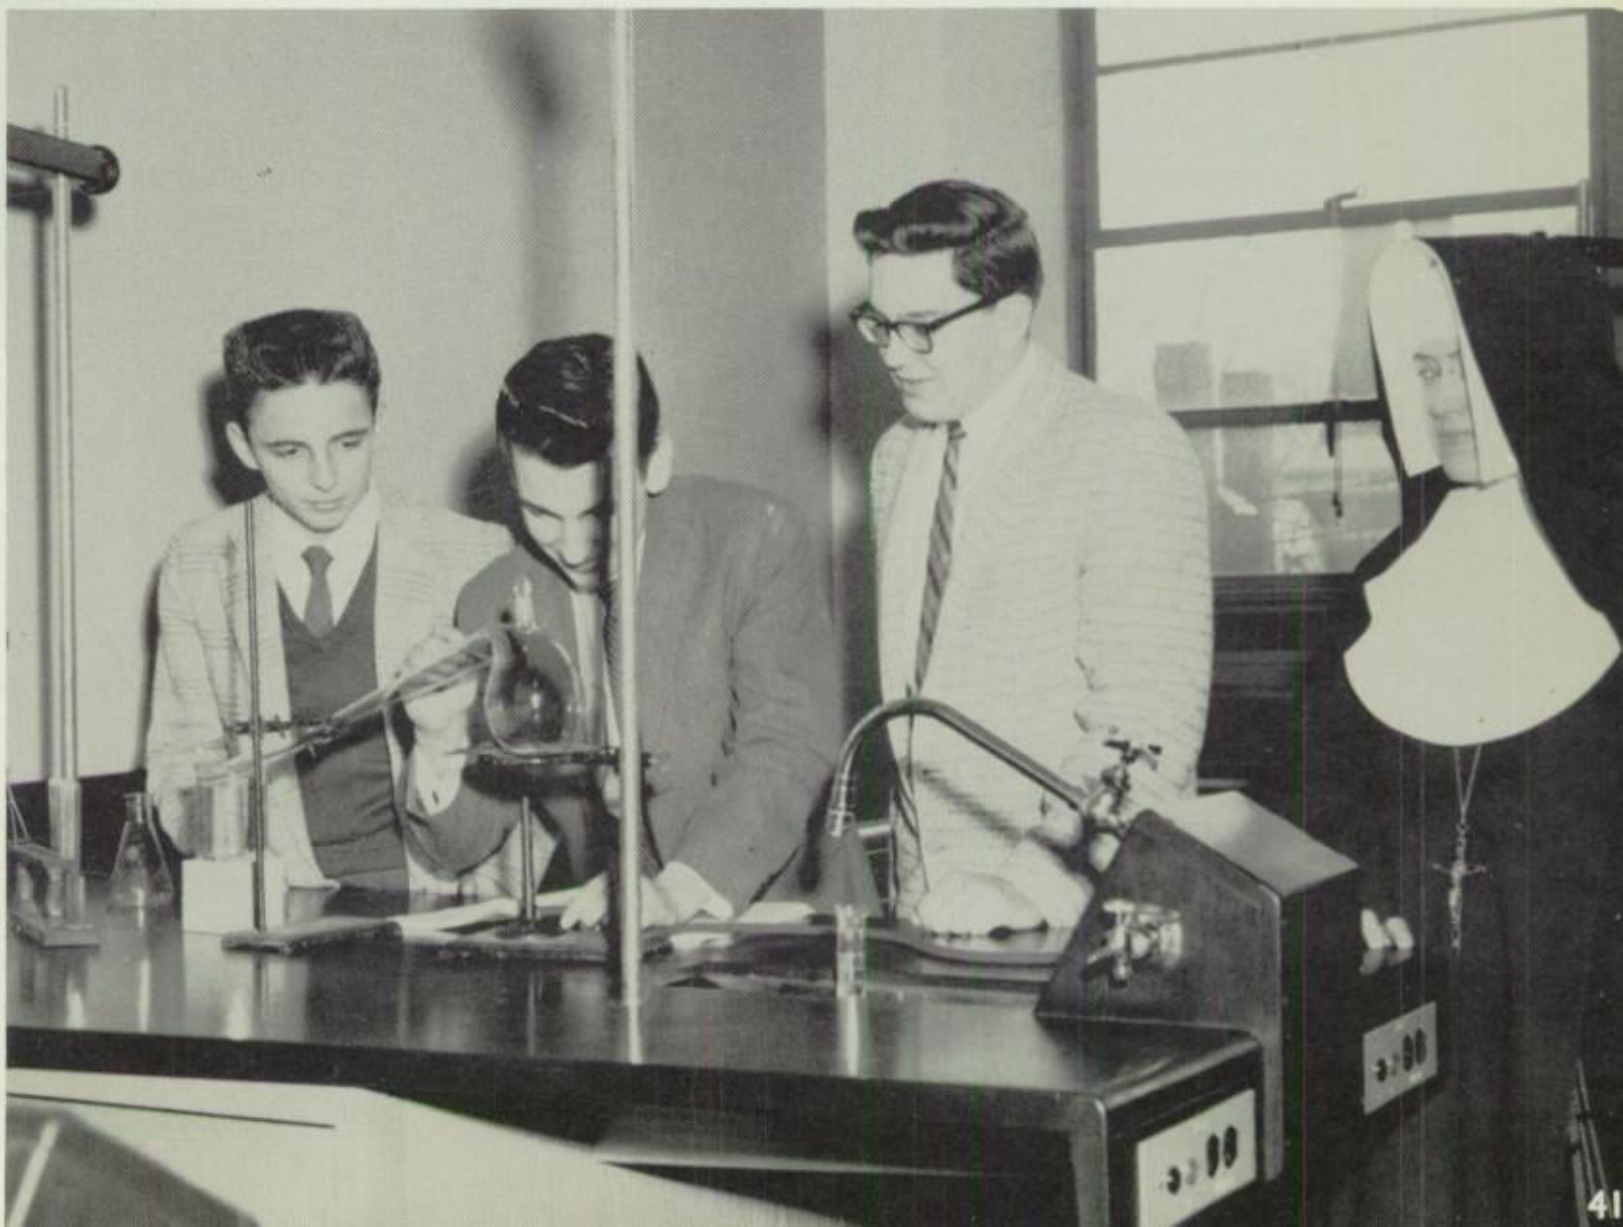
Judging from Vincent's expression, this Trig problem is impossible. "Not impossible," says Sister Florence, "merely ambiguous."

The intricacies of plane geometry hold no fears for these Junior Academic students—especially not for Pat O'Brien and Ronnie Rogano.

Complexities; Amplify Our Reasoning Powers

Plotting graphs can be fascinating. Sister Chrysta keeps an alert ear to Barbara Liberi's explanation as Janet Aiello and Kenneth Edwards illustrate the method of solving for x and y.

Roland Dilda, Dennis Fitch, and Richard Bolick hope to produce some Nitric Acid. Sister Clarice looks rather dubious, however.



To Observe the Achievements of Man;

All is serene in Senior Commercial P.O.D. class as Sister Brigid explains the necessity and importance of conservation.

It's Jerome Smith's turn to test the sophomores on the "words and phrases" at the end of the Chapter on the Renaissance in World history.

Paul Vogel quizzes the Junior Commercial American history class on the Presidents of the United States and their administration.

to Reflect the Infinite Justice of God–

Howard Reith and LaRoy Walters enliven Pennsylvania history class with their demonstration and explanation of life in the early days in Pennsylvania.

The rescue of Fort Pitt by the Scotch is depicted with puppets by Margaret Biagini, Karen Fitch, and Janice Billante as one of their Historama projects.

To Fuse Our Catholic and Varied

Maureen Mullen seems to be quite pleased with the quick response to a problem which she has presented to the Junior Business Arithmetic class.

"Do not sacrifice accuracy for speed," warns Sister Evangelist, as she dictates to the Senior shorthand class.

The Senior Commercials tensely await the signal to begin one of their regular speed tests.

Training Skills

Sister Evangelist gives the Typing I Class time to "warm up" before testing their speed.

Serious Senior Commercials prepare to tackle "Project Three" in Bookkeeping Class.

Shorthand pads are piled for Sister Lucille to scrutinize in her leisure time. Thomas McGrath's contribution is the usual "Admit to Class" slip!

Confronting Mothers Future

Mary Rita Huray, Nancy Smith, and Karen Ault combine forces to fill the cookie jars for the Christmas season. Of course, there are always dishes to wash, aren't there, Dorothea?

Miss Nancy Sims, Home Economist for the National Dairy Council, stresses the necessity of balance in the daily diet to Homemaking I Class.

Sister Jamesine and some of her homemaking students happily return from "Foods with a Flair display"—with some of the food.

Activities

Father Weber, O.S.B., our retreat master, chats with some of the seniors about things in general, and about St. Vincent's Archabbey in particular.

Father Charles Weber, a Benedictine monk from St. Vincent's Archabbey, conducted our annual retreat this year. A dynamic personality, an eloquent speaker, and a zealous missionary, Father Weber aroused us to a realization that nothing is of any value in our lives unless it tends toward the glory of God and our eternal salvation.

In his opening conference Father admonished that this retreat would be beneficial only inasmuch as each individual corresponded to the grace of God.

Throughout the days of retreat, from January 26 to 28, there were evidences of serious thinking. The retreat schedule consisting of daily Mass, Holy Communion, Rosary, visits to the Blessed Sacrament, Stations of the Cross, spiritual reading and power-packed conferences afforded every opportunity to grow unto Christ. God grant that the resolutions made during this retreat shall remain firm unto life everlasting.

"May the Body of our Lord Jesus Christ keep your soul unto life everlasting." To a man, the Senior class received Holy Communion on the closing day of retreat. What a tremendous privilege is ours, not only during a retreat, but every day of our lives!

These seniors do not seem to have much to choose from for their informative reading matter. It's retreat time; the pamphlet rack is somewhat depleted.

Spiritual Enrichment — to Enlighten

Our Minds and Our Souls

To Participate in the Apostolate

C.S.M.C. president, Anna Jane Shally, instructs vice-president, Ronald Adams, on which banner goes where as treasurer, Thomas Scott, and secretary, Mary Healy, recheck the First Friday sacrifice returns.

"The Sacred Heart for the world, the world for the Sacred Heart." This is the motto and the purpose of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade. Through prayer, study, and sacrifice, Mission Crusaders endeavor to attain this purpose.

Here at the Mount the mission spirit has always been exemplary. The C.S.M.C. officers, and the mission representatives from the various classes assume the responsibility of the activities of this Christlike work. The student response to the suggestions of these leaders is such that Saint Mary of the Mount has ben able to maintain a first or second place in the diocesan rating, bowing only to its sister school—Saint Rosalia's.

Apostolic work of this type does not stop when we leave high school. No matter what our vocation, we must, as Christian Catholics, do our part in making "The Sacred Heart for the world, the world for the Sacred Heart."

Efficient Mary Healy calmly checks Freshman 305's canceled stamp returns, while the sophomores deposit their "poor Jakes" in the designated sack.

The Mission-minded Mounties who attended the Mission Sunday Holy Hour at St. Paul's Cathedral. With such leaders, how can we fail?

of the Hierarchy

Our Mission Outlook is a success through the earnest efforts of the Senior Commercial staff who sacrifice much of their time to its publication.

Judging from the serious expressions on the faces of these freshmen, we can have no fears that they meant it when they said: "I will support the missions."

Lady Abbess, Anna Jane Shally, looks on as Major Domo, Ronald Adams, questions the freshmen candidates before their admission to the C.S.M.C.

With solemn dignity the officers of the C.S.M.C. and the Senior Class conduct the freshmen to the auditorium where they were officially received into the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade.

To Pray Doubly in

The orchestra, under the experienced direction of Sister Anna Teresa, and the glee club so proficiently trained by Sister Ina continue a musical tradition of many years at St. Mary of the Mount.

Sitting back and enjoying their combined Spring Concert is an experience eagerly anticipated by all. The concert, however, is prefaced with intensive and time-consuming preparation, for this concert, although the Music department's traditional closing presentation, is by no means its only one.

At all school functions, whether in high school or grade school, the orchestra graciously enhances the event with appropriate selections.

From the Christmas season on—beginning with the singing of the solemn and impressive "Advent Hymn" at Carnegie Hall up to their own Concert in the Spring—the glee club's impressive schedule includes the singing of carols at Mellon Park, St. Nicholas Church and participation in the Diocesan Festival.

Thus, striving for creation and love of the "language of the soul" our orchestra and glee club contribute much to our cultural enjoyment here at the Mount.

Taking advantage of the Carnegie Music Hall's beautiful surroundings, the N.C.M.E.A. group poses for a yearbook picture before the presentation of "United We Sing" the spectacular Christmas festival under the direction of Mrs. Samuel Ely Elliot.

The dependable and cooperative choir boys of Saint Mary of the Mount, under the direction of Mr. Antonio Corona, practice the beautiful "Pange Lingua."

Glee Club officers—Norma Belsterling, Maureen Tighe, Robert Gaffey, and James Moore—perform one of their minor chores.

"The Language of the Soul"

Attention, underclassmen! The places of these seniors in the orchestra must be filled.

"Music is the universal language of mankind." This expression is ably illustrated by our orchestra under the training of Sister Anna Theresa and the direction of Mr. Corona.

With the tap of Mr. Corona's baton, another enjoyable Spring Concert by St. Mary of the Mount Glee Club begins.

Proudly, the History Honor Society takes note of Pittsburgh's Bicentennial progress. Reactionary David Ault, however, prefers the old established buildings.

"Aren't you a little off course, David?" questions Albert Parker, as other members of the Classical Honor Society look askance.

Science can be fun,—or so 'twould seem if we are to judge from the expressions on the faces of these Science Honor students.

Foster Special Aptitudes

Toward an articulate Catholic laity is the objective of the Catholic Forensic League. The Mount's outstanding orator, Carol McCann, is being congratulated for her last tournament ratings—three firsts.

Joseph Janscar passes on to the Math Honor members some of the math he learns at Duquesne on Saturday mornings.

Our champion typist, Mary Healy, gives a demonstration for the other members of Business Honor Society.

The Writers' Honor Society looks for ideas to offer at the next diocesan meeting.

"We must familiarize ourselves with this material on French civilization before the next meeting," warns Mary Jane Haas, school representative for the Modern Language Honor Society.

To Assume the Responsibility

Mother Alma happily approves the Senior class officers' suggestion to bring a little Christmas joy to Christ's "old folks" at their Benton Avenue Home.

Edward Haas, Sophomore 102 class president, good-naturedly takes orders from the other class officers—Roberta Zama, Barbara Liberi, and Margaret Butler.

The representatives of the Student Council admire the outdoor Crib and beautiful Christmas tree provided by the Mt. Washington Lion's Club.

of Leadership

Student Council officers agree that first floor landing is an important post. President Charles Hays decides that he, himself, will assume this responsibility.

Sophomore 101 class officers—Herman Tomasetti, Beverly Slater, Catherine Waple and Verna Rectenwald—decorate first floor bulletin boards for the Christmas season.

To Strive for

Sports editors, Norman Belsterling and Thomas Deigan, confer with Thomas Scott and Dominic Celmo, photography editors.

How true the old adage that "many hands make light work." So it is has been in the publication of our yearbook. True, the actual labor of planning layouts, writing and revising copy and suitably captioning pictures fell to the yearbook staff; yet, if each member of the class had not contributed his share in many varied ways, there would be no need for a staff.

Just as each senior doing his part has helped to make our yearbook a reality, so, too, can each senior throughout his life do his part to restore all things to Christ.

The big chiefs—co-editors Richard Sweterlitsch and Albert Parker—who unselfishly devoted long hours and much effort to the success of the Maryan.

Perfection

The Literary Staff scans the pages of superior yearbooks to look for ideas.

Patrick Monica, serious-minded yearbook business manager capably carries out his duties.

Boosters, patrons, and benefactors are sorted and alphabetized for the yearbook typists by the competent advertising staff—John Kelly, Joseph Janscar, James Moore, and Ronald Ruckert.

Cast X steps forward to receive their well-deserved reward.

"Anne, I think your father is out."

"Dying! Henry! Why don't you do something?"

Make Use of Our Talents

"It's Mr. Purcell, you fathead!"

These "behind the scenes" workers were invaluable to the success of the Senior Class Play.

Mrs. Spangler casts admiring glances over the formal attire of the entourage preparing to leave for the Commencement Ball.

Something seems to be worrying Coach John Gallagher and Student Manager Vincent Petraglia. Could it be the results of the game?

Coach Nancy McMahon checks the score with Student Managers Mary Jane Haas and Sharon Bird.

Awakening from its lethargy of the past two years, the girls' Varsity Basketball team has so improved that even a section championship no longer seems unattainable.

Our hope for first place center around our new coach, Nancy McMahon, a 1955 graduate from the Mount. Not only is Nancy passing on her vast knowledge of the game, but she is also injecting into us some of her school spirit and her loyalty to her Alma Mater.

Once again St. Mary of the Mount has a girls' team to be proud of.

ALMA MATER

High on the Mount there stands St. Mary's
Whose strong position and proud tradition
Are beacons bright to light our school days
And guide us on our way.
The spirit of St. Mary's High
In loyal hearts, will never die;
Our colors, blue and white, shall triumph—
We'll raise them to the sky.

To you, dear School, we sing our grateful song.
Your golden measure, we'll always treasure;
To you we sing—St. Mary of the Mount,
Your works we honor—your years recount.

All hail to you, dear Alma Mater,
Your spirit royal will keep us loyal;
All hail to you, dear Alma Mater,
To you we WILL BE TRUE.

OUR THANKS

As we are about to conclude the 1958 MARYAN, we would like to express our gratitude to:
Our PRIESTS, Father Sullivan, Father Fronek and Father Lang, for their encouragement;
Our FACULTY for their guidance;
The STUDENT BODY for their cooperation;
The TERRACE ARCADE STUDIO for its consideration and excellent photography;
The TAYLOR PUBLISHING COMPANY for handling the publication;
Our BENEFACTORS, PATRONS and SPONSORS for their generous support.

To each and every one who in anyway helped to make our yearbook a success, we pray that the Lord bless you and keep you. May He show His face to you and have mercy on you. May He turn His countenance to you and give you peace.
